Differences in the approaches to youth participation

Share your experience in the Erasmus+ project you participated in (or your experiences in projects in general as a researcher or NA representative) - what did you learn and is still relevant from that experience?

Youth worker since 2003, as support to young people in E+ projects. Young people are in the lead

Involvement in youth exchanges as an older person is inspiring, one learns a lot and it is energizing

Motivating young people to go youth exchanges, preparing them in advance our countries

3 researchers and 3
NA representatives

Different legal settings/basis

Share your experience in the Erasmus+ project you participated in (or your experiences in projects in general as a researcher or NA representative) - what did you learn and is still relevant from that experience?

Important to listen to young and older persons, having a dialogue, from this basis you can create great projects - INTERGENERATIONAL DIALOGUE

Follow-up really needed

Young people across Europe are facing similar big issues, there are differences but the final objective (youth well-being) is the same.

Mask mandatoryness is different :o)

A good mix of roles in the room

Some early birds, some night owls

Share your experience in the Erasmus+ project you participated in (or your experiences in projects in general as a researcher or NA representative) - what did you learn and is still relevant from that experience?

New projects are exciting!

It is actually easier to plan and run a project without a pandemic

NAs should be a little more open to making the Programmes fitting for projects on the ground, rather than squeezing the projects to fit the programmes

Different countries have very different youth work practices - not all of them might be applicable to your own context, but they are educational nonetheless

Programmes have a powerful and positive impact

Programmes do more than individual learning: they change society (even if sometimes at small scale) positively and uniquely would like to be in Straßburg looking forward to the debate tomorrow

Find out at least three differences among your group.

all live in different cities

Different roles: participants, project-leaders, researchers, etc.

come from different organizations

Share your experience in the Erasmus+ project you participated in (or your experiences in projects in general as a researcher or NA representative) - what did you learn and is still relevant from that experience?

Local impact projects with 5 volunteers, working for different NGOs. Learning: with 5 volunteers, they created a smaller community in the city

MEP (Model European Parliament): Young people in different committees are debating about several topics, finding problems & solution for real problems, dresscode - very formal style

Taking part, structure dialogue with young migrants
